

Director, Strategy Americas

Job description

In this role, You will have outstanding analytical capabilities and a high level of comfort with financial, economic, and sometimes ambiguous information from multiple sources, contextually analyze in a structured, interesting way and synthesize compelling insights. You convince across hierarchies - with your intellect, thought leadership, and collaborative style, and can communicate complex topics in a compelling, understandable way. You are a strong team player, collaborator, and network builder. You are comfortable working in intercultural environments and global matrix structures. Curiosity leads you to reinvent yourself and to take unknown paths. Last but not least: you are really passionate about something else than work, too! This position can be based out of San Jose, CA, or El Segundo, CA OR Irvine, CA OR San Diego,

In your new role, you will:

- Be responsible for providing project leadership and broad analytical support for Infineon Americas' regional strategy and mergers and acquisitions (SMA) team.
- Contribute and actively participate in defining, analyzing, synthesizing, and formulating strategic insights (outside in and inside out) that translate into clear strategic options and actionable strategies for Infineon's products, applications, organization, and business
- Have a broad exposure across Infineon's divisions and business lines, explore synergistic connections, and proactively partner with cross-functional leadership and stakeholders to define, drive and execute on strategic topics
- Have a strong pulse on the industry, competitive intelligence, and macro-environment trends in areas pertaining to automotive, industrial, and consumer segments, with a focus on maximizing opportunities for Infineon
- Apply your understanding of technology and its implications, and market /domain knowledge on emerging and disruptive topics relating to our growth opportunities in energy efficiency, mobility, security, and IoT & big data
- We are looking for a detail-oriented self-starter, comfortable with rolling up their sleeves and able to work in a fast-paced environment, and is a strong team player.
