

Senior Category Manager (f/m/div)*

Job description

Would you like to work in a multicultural and dynamic environment in constant growth? Are you ready to jump into your next challenge? Join us now and work closely with a team of experts playing a crucial role in our Purchasing department as our new Senior Category Manager. Here you will have the opportunity to be involved in interesting and challenging tasks within a multinational company.

As a Senior Category Manager, you will handle Strategic Procurement marketing for an accounted product or services segment, using the pooling potential for all sites of Infineon (and Joint Ventures, if applicable), in order to achieve an excellent supply base with the best terms.

In your new role you will:

- Be responsible for medium to large/high volumes and/or complexity of the commodities.
- Ensure the pooling of demand from various sites to increase purchasing power to the best possible effect.
- Organize the Operations Plan (Blue Book) with yearly goals and estimated market price development to inform Infineon Management and sites about planned strategy and main areas of activities.
- Be in charge of relationship, supplier and contract management, negotiating global contracts and agreements.
- Represent the communication provider (spokesperson) to the most important suppliers.
- Coordinate a cross-functional "Focus on Value" team (products or services).
- Keep close contact with internal/external interface partners to build and maintain a communicative purchasing network, recognize developments (in market, demand, etc.) and influence accordingly.
- Prepare the reporting of results (quarterly risk reports, monthly reports of cost reduction/avoidance).
- Actively support local projects (e.g. new plants or modules).

Profile

You enjoy interacting with people from different backgrounds, building strong relations and cooperation, being thrilled to work in a cross-functional global network of experts. Your critical thinking allows you to discuss and highlight the most relevant topics. You have strong communication skills and a creative and continuous process improvement mindset, being used to communicate with suppliers. Moreover, your exceptional negotiating skills and strong commercial understanding are your best allies in the
